Large brick buildings are going up in the sunshine, and the Roanoke sympathizers were not submitted to the double disagreeableness of defeat and uncomfortable atmosphere.

The Roanokes played in hard luck, which was the cause of their defeat, and ball playing such as they exhibited yesterday would win them nine games out of every ten. The batting is what lost the game.

The Hagerstown club scored two runs in the first and one in the second inning, after which they got a lengthy and prominent row of goose eggs, only one run of which was earned.

In the seventh inning the Roanokes

The sunshine, and the Roanoke sympathizers were going to have water works and electric lights? Yes, sir. The mayor of the city has advertised for bids for both plants which will be opened on the first of August, the bonds have also been made out to pay for the same. When we get our electric plant in full blast, I want you, Roenoke people, to come up and spend the night with us and behold the city that, a few years ago, was nothing but "Martin's Tank" and a very poor tank, it was something like "Big Lick" that used to be. Some of your readers in Roanoke can tell you something about this place, tell you something about this place, "Big Lick" ten years ago, and by the In the seventh inning the Roanokes made a run which was the only one made in the game, the man accomplishing this feat being Alex Brodie. Pat Rollins, the Irishman, received an immense amount of applause as catcher for the Hagerstown boys, and is well known here and remembered as a member of the Lynchburg professional nine which existed several years ago. He met many old acquaintances and was royally treated last night.
